

Hermits Hop Tonight

Hardtimes dance to end men's week

Men's Week will be climaxed tonight with a gala affair in Larchmont Hall, 118 No. Larchmont, called the Hermit's Holiday Hop. This dance is intended to be the social event of the season with all LASC's students attending.

Holiday Hop is sponsored by the Order of Satan, lettermen's club. Chairman of the dance is Al Reiff, vice-president, and assisting him are Craig Bell, Bob Mahoney, Buddy Weber, Bob Quinn, Jerry Donovan, and Harry Hale.

During the float parade, scheduled from 12 to 1 p.m. today, the Order of Satan Club will sell bids on the athletic field for the dance. The club members will be wearing white lettermen sweaters with a large gold S on the left side.

Bids for the dance sell at $1.50 per couple. Refreshments are 25c per bottle, according to Craig Bell, publicity chairman. Cokes will also be sold for sissies and women. The hop begins at 8:30 p.m. and lasts until 1 a.m.

Mark Traversino and his orchestra feature smooth, sweet music with a bit of dixie land jive for jazz fiends.

As befits Men's Week, dress will be hardtimes costumes with levis predominating. The evil roots are to deck themselves in cottons for the evening.

Dance favors will be pipes for both men and women. Those who don't smoke can bring their soap and water for bubbles.

Gene Nelson will serve as master of ceremonies for the intermission floor show.

Proceeds from the dance will be used to buy jackets for the active members of the Order of Satan.

This dance will culminate Men's Week activities with all announcements on float winners being made during intermission. Prizes will be awarded for the best beard. "Women are barred from competition", stated Reiff. Other awards for the best showing of activities by organizations during the week will also be made at this time.

"This dance has always been the social highlight of the season, and this year it will surpass previous efforts. Anyone missing this affair will be sorry," stated Gene Nelson, with a steely glint in his eye.

All Elementary and Secondary Education majors who intend to do directed teaching in the spring semester and are not cleared on the Fundamentals Test must take this test on Sat. Dec. 2, at 8 a.m. in Chem 3, reports Dr. Fred M. Tonge, head of Education.

All students who have taken this test in the fall and have failed in one or more parts of it will be responsible for retaking those parts. Every student who will take the test will have received a letter notifying him. Dr. Tonge also reports that any student who thinks he needs to take this test and has not received a letter or notification should come to the Education Office in the Ad. building.

Only students planning to do practice teaching in the spring will be eligible to take the test at this time.

Alumni ticket contact erroneously reported

An erroneous report stating Robert L. Wickham may be contacted for Alumni Association season tickets appearing in the Nov. 28 issue. We hope Mr. Wickham has not been inconvenienced.

Mr. Wickham was the first to purchase a ticket. Proceeds from sales will build an athletic fund to support State College's 1951 football team.

Float parade today's event

Scenes epitomizing the Men's Week theme, women are the root of all evil, will be portrayed in the float parade today from 12 to 1 on Snyder field. The basketball rally for tomorrow night's 8 p.m. game with the University of Southern California varsity team will be held in conjunction with the parade.

The parade will definitely establish the superiority of men over women. "Don't miss this event men," said Doug Andress committee chairman from Rho Delta Chi sponsors of the parade, "it may be your last chance this year to strut your superiority."

Dr. Fred Tonge, Dr. Helen Kennedy & Mr. Daniel Amneus will assay the qualities of the floats for workmanship and appropriateness to the theme.

Fifteen floats are expected to enter the contest. They have been entered by various clubs, fraternities, and sororities.

A.S. candidates to file Monday

In the best interest of the students of LASC the elections commission wishes to inform all interested in student government of the period in which candidates file for office.

Candidates filing must do so between the fourth and the eighth of Dec. All candidates must have a one point grade average.

All students having an interest in government are urged to take part. "Let us put our best foot forward and make this the greatest election in the history of State College," stated John Cope, commissioner of elections.

All offices are open for filing except AS president, vice-president and representative-at-large.

Only four days left to take yearbook pictures

Four more days for yearbook photographs. The accurate list of correct dress to be worn for individual portraits is in the north end of B 2.

Proofs will be shown every day for the next two weeks in B 2 and individuals are urged to select their proofs soon.

There are still 88 seniors to be photographed so they must hurry and make their appointments.

The four days left for pictures of groups and individuals are:

Student elections will be here before anyone has time to think and file an application. Elections in the past, at State, have proven to be rather cut and dried long before we students have an opportunity to cast our votes. The reason this practice has prevailed is because only a limited number of students have taken the initiative to put forth extra time, show a sincere interest in the function of our school, and participate effectively in activities.

The only pre-requisite for holding a student body office, beside the very elementary ones as stated in the code of election, is a desire to serve. Let me assure you that no organized groups on campus, at the present time, are pulling strings to put any one person or groups of persons into office. Many totally unknown students in the past have come forth, and completely convinced the rest of the student body that they have something to contribute, and were elected. You do not have to be a parliamentarian, diplomat or the most popular person on campus to get elected.

You women of this school are something to write home about! The last two women representatives have been elected by writ-ins. No woman for the last two semesters has seen fit to express her desire to the women students to serve and represent them by filing for office. Some of the most energetic students on this campus, at the present time, are women. Yet when elections come around not more than one woman will have filed for an office. Women's representative is not the only office available and I would sincerely like to see more than one or two feminine names on the ballot.

NOW is the time to look over the vacancies and file for the one you are best qualified to fill. Plan your campaign, advertise, and fight with all you have and you will be rewarded. . . . Men and Women. . . . NOW is the time to act. Come to the front and serve your school. Make our student government one we can all be proud of.

On Tuesday, Nov. 10, 1950, the Board of Education approved the leasing of land from the Braille Institute to provide more parking for State College students.

The article, which carried the news in the College Times, stated: "As soon as the president of the Board of Education signs the lease, funds will be appropriated and the maintenance department will begin work on fencing and graveling the parking lot."

Well! Where is the finished parking lot? It seems the rent of the Braille lot is $250 a month. What are we getting for the money paid out in rent? Why isn't something being done to get the parking space ready? Who is holding it up? It's been a month since the lease was signed and nothing has been done to the lot.

There are too many automobiles coming to State College every day and too few parking spaces for them. The Braille parking lot is available waiting for the maintenance department to begin work on it. Somewhere along the line there is a bottleneck holding up completion of this badly needed facility. Whoever it is, or whatever it is, should be pushed a bit, or removed from the neck of the bottle.

If the president of the Board of Education has signed the lease, the blame for not finishing the parking lot could be with the maintenance department. If this is the case let's hope they will consider the misery of the car owners driving to State College five days a week, and hurry this project.

Whatever the reason. . . . let's hope something is done soon.

Variety offered by "164"

New courses have been introduced at State College this term which are designed primarily for elementary & secondary teaching candidates. The variety of "164" course numbers offered, include Drama 164, Radio and Television 164, Journalism 164, and Motion Pictures 164, each is represented with the aim of instructing aspiring teachers in school methods of teaching.

For example, Journalism 164, conducted by Paul T. Scott, associate professor of Journalism, deals with the theory and techniques of school newspapers. The course is designed for credential candidates who desire an introduction to the practical problems in supervising school publications.

Drama 164, conducted by Grant E. Shepard, assistant professor of Drama, presents the theory and techniques of dramatic productions in school and community theatres. It is designed for General Credential candidates.

Radio & Television 164 and Motion Picture 164 are designed for Elementary & Secondary candidates and also for parents. Emphasis is on the social, psychological, and educational importance of radio, television and motion pictures for children of elementary and high school age.

Motion Pictures 164 deserves special mention because it is unique in its offering. It is the only course of its kind in the country. Because of this fact, a new system of approach was needed for presentation this semester. Since there was no previous work done in the formulation of such a course, new ideas and methods had to be devised.

Alfred Ehrhardt, assistant professor of English, accepted the tremendous responsibility of planning, organizing and conducting the course program. By the method of class discussions, and contributions, a groundwork of ideas, inspirations, and procedures were developed. Through his own research, collecting of data, and arranging of materials, Ehrhardt formulated a thoroughly interesting and completely organized course. This he accomplished in a short span of a few weeks.

Included in the course study outline are: (1) The History of the Motion Pictures, (2) Psychology and Social Effects of the Motion Pictures on Children, (3) Specific Types of Motion Pictures, (4) Methods of Evaluation of Motion Pictures. The course includes many other aspects and concepts of the theatre, radio and television.

The trend in teacher training is becoming broader in scope. Ehrhardt defines the situation very appropriately in his statement. "Teacher training has grown in technical complexities to the degree where it is no longer sufficient for the prospective teacher to become a subject-matter specialist. In addition, he must now become familiar with a rapidly enlarging field of pedagogics."

Mouie Review

BITTER RICE, an Italian made film, is the latest foreign movie to draw attention. In many ways it resembles a thriller such as Hollywood is expert in producing.

It is lifted out of the ordinary by two things: first, its star, a sexy, sultry young woman named Silvana Mangano; and second, its subject, the rice harvest of northern Italy.

A pair of jewel thieves on the run from the police join the migrant workers crowded into an abandoned barracks on an Italian estate. One of them, a girl, (Doris Dowling), slogs into the rice paddies and finds redemption in hard work and the love of an army sergeant (Raf Vallone). The other (Vittorio Gassmann) spends his time chasing Silvana and plotting to steal the rice harvest.

Along the way is a good deal of down to earth violence: Silvana gets birched on a roadside, Doris is nearly mobbed as a scab by her fellow workers, and Gassmann is amped on a meat hook during a fight in a butcher shop.

Director Giuseppe de Santis gets a sweaty authenticity into his scenes in the barracks and fields, and devotes much of the film's footage to Silvana's Grecian profile & beautiful body.

Caverhill here to head library

State College welcomes Mr. Beverly S. S. Caverhill who will take the reins as head Librarian.

Mr. Caverhill, a specialist in modern theory of library science, comes to State from the University of Redlands where he held an Assistant Professorship as well as being Head Librarian.

Born in Canada and raised in Portland, Oregon, Mr. Caverhill received his B. A. and M. A. degree at the University of Oregon and his Certificate of Librarianship from UCLA in 1941. Mr. Caverhill's university experience has been supplemented by work in the Seattle Public library and three years with the United States Naval Intelligence Service during the war.

Board to discuss building plans

Plans for the new building project will be discussed by the Board of Education in the near future. This announcement was made by Dr. McDonald, president of State and City Colleges, to the members of the press in their last press meeting.

Also mentioned in the meeting, was the information concerning a new faculty organization which is now being formed to prepare a program for the purpose of retaining this college's staff members in the uncertain future. Because of the decreasing enrollments caused by the new draft laws and with the veterans graduating, the problem of retaining the present teaching staff will be more difficult as time goes on. However, Dr. McDonald feels certain that any such problems will be able to be worked out.

Play opens on Dec. 6

Reservations for the State College drama department show "Capital Idea" may be made daily, starting Dec. 4, between 1 and 3 p.m. in B 44-A. Students may make reservations by showing their Student Body Cards.

The show opens Dec. 6 and runs through the 8th. The curtain will rise at 8:30 in B 22.

Written by Dr. Louis Gardinal, it is being directed by Don Antaky. Beverly Heilig, William Milner and David Farmer are playing the main parts. Supporting them are Mary Lou Harrington, Len Weksler and June Franklin.

Others in the cast include John Kimbro, Charles Laraway, Edwina Gaines, and Norman Vroom.

Music lovers have nook

Housed within the walls of B 6 is the music listening room. There are nearly 800 phonograph records and many music scores for the use of both music and non-music majors.

There are record-players equipped to play all speeds of records. Most of the players have adapters for playing through earphones as well as through speakers.

Phil Adams and Harry Hale are on hand most of the time to give assistance and check out the equipment.

The music room will be moved to B 4 within a month. The new location should prove to be a big improvement over present quarters as the entire building will be reserved for the purpose.

Utter Bosh

The fair haired youth lit his pipe
And stared out into space;
His eyes frowned—his mouth was grim—
A determined look flashed across his face

"Women," he muttered, "are a senseless lot,
They have no brains at all;
They never give a thing a thought
They're all headed for a fall.

"Now if they'd leave the men alone,
And settle their thoughts elsewhere,
Why things would be of a different tone—
We men would have nary a care."

The fair haired girl sneered aloud
And laughed at the youth by her side
And then as if talking to a crowd
She waved her hand and cried:

"What utter bosh you talk,
You spineless two-legged male,
Why without the feminine sex around
You men would wither and fail.

"Who'd worry about taxes and bills?
Who'd have the fire burning bright?
Who'd bring you your slippers;
your tobacco and such,
When you came home weary at night?"

"Who'd have the supper ready?
Who'd have the clothes always clean?
Don't tell me, you'd have the children
Why, that would cause a scene!

"Who would love you sweetly,
When business all went wrong?
Who'd laugh and cheer with you,
When things were a different song?"

Men try and tell me women are dense—
Don't stand with your mouth open wide,
Open your head and use your sense,
And swallow all that pride."

CSTA confab draws students

Los Angeles State CSTA members represented the college at the CSTA Southern Section at Whittier College Saturday, Nov. 18.

Whittier College was the scene of the conference committee workshops. Ten members from LASC participated in committees on; ethics, teacher education & professional standards, international relations, teacher vocational guidance, and by-laws to the CSTA Constitution.

After brief addresses of welcome by Dean Harold F. Spencer of Whittier College and Mary A. Ball, Assistant Secretary of the CTA and CSTA state advisor, the group adjourned to the various committee workshops. Here they discussed their topics and compiled a report to present to the assembled groups at the end of the session.

Among the ideas bought forth from these committee reports were: to have corresponding requirements for the student teacher at all the teacher training institutions in California, and that observation and participation should be given earlier in the training; teachers should become aware of international relations and help their pupils become aware of them also; and the CSTA should organize some form of material on teaching as a profession and send this to the high schools.

Bill Anton acted as chairman for the committee on teacher vocational guidance. Other students representing LASC were: Barbara Holden, Ben Lelevier, Marjory Sully, Leland Ericson, Nancy Levitt, Bernard Madwin, Paul Johnson, Sue Reese, and sponsor Mrs. Marie Martin.

Diablos win another

Diablos blast Sagehens 56-33

Paced by the timely scoring of Dick Green and Hugh Corrigan, Sax Elliot's State basketball team swamped a visiting Pomona Sagehen five 56-33 last Monday night on the local hardwood.

It was the fourth win in as many starts for the Diablos who held a 25-17 halftime bulge thanks to some fancy shooting on the part of forward Corrigan.

The visitors took an early lead as forward Del Deis connected on two jump shots from 10 feet out. However buckets by Marv Gurian, Gene Boucher, and Amby Effertz gave a 6-4 margin. Forward Bill Hammon sank seven quick digits to send Pomona in front 11-6.

Green followed with two "beautiful" hook shots to close the gap 10-11. Buckets by Deis, Hammon and Bill Cooper made it 17-10 in favor of Pomona. Then "Tiger" Corrigan set to work and pushed through two jump shots and a tip-in. Some fancy passing on the part of guard Jack Sparks, and buckets by Norm Witte and Ed Goorjian gave State the lead at the halfway mark.

The Diablos pulled away in the second stanza and won "going away like a good thing." Pomona hit for five digits in the first ten minutes of the final period, while State was feeding the hoop with 20.

In quick succession Dick Schlessinger and center Leo Guzik scored seven straight points. Backboard control on the part of Gurian and Green was one of the contributing factors in Pomona failing to score in the remaining minutes of the tussle.

With the score 39-24, Green made good on four straight buckets. He fed the hoop with a jump shot from the key, a push from the same position, a hook from the right side, and an eight foot pusher from the side.

In the final minutes of play Bob Woods added six points for the losers. Sparks and Guzik ended the scoring parade with a lay-up shot and two free throws respectively.

Next game for the Diablo squad will be Saturday night when State faces its toughest opponent of the season in the Trojans from the University of Southern California. The contest will start at 8 o'clock in the Troy gym.

SCORING:

State College (56)	Pomona (33)
Effertz (2)	F Hammon (9)
Gurian (2)	F Dies (8)
Guzik (3)	C Woods (10)
Goorjian (3)	G Cooper (5)
Boucher (4)	G Kroeger (1)

Scoring subs: State College—Witte (4) Corrigan (10), Green (18), Sparks (6), Schlessinger (4).

Know your cagers Keglers now in second place

Dick Green

The success of the Diablo basketball team this season is strongly "centered" around pivot man Dick Green a 6 foot 4 inch, 210 pound letterman is currently leading State scorers with 33 points in four games, a nifty 8.0 average. Eighteen of these were pushed through the hoop in the recent Pomona game.

Green holds about every local scoring record possible. He sank 334 points last year for an all time high, averaged 13.2 digits per-game, and set a single game scoring mark with a 34 total against La Verne. Twenty-eight of these were recorded in the second half for another honor.

The big cager began playing basketball at Fairfax High School where he lettered two years. After graduation Green joined forces with the Marines. He was stationed in the South Pacific and was chosen on the Guam All-Service team, setting cage records by the dozens.

It was in 1946 that Green enrolled at City College. For some reason Green tried his hand at football. He held down an end-berth that season playing with such greats as Woodley Lewis, Cliff Schroeder, and Harry Thompson.

During the '48 casaba season he was second string center behind Al Roges. Roges is currently holding down a starting berth on the Long Island University quintet.

Last season he was voted the "most improved player" on the State team. Green, who is noted for his hook shots, and rebound ability, has another year of eligibility.

The giant "cage cutie" thinks the Diablos have a good chance to capture the 2C2A crown this season.

Keglers now in Cage statistics

Center Dick Green holds a slim two point margin over "easy" Ed Goorjian in the Diablo scoring race after four games. The unofficial tabulation finds Green heading the way with 33 points on 13 field goals, and seven free throws.

Marv Gurian and Jack Sparks hold down third and fourth spots. Sparks shows the way in the free throw department with ten.

Prediction results

After a week of eating "turkey" and recovering from the startling effects produced by another weekend of upsets on the college football scene, our "campus crystal gazers" are back to furnish the "bookies" with the points for this weekend's games.

The result column has again been revamped with Wayne "Stu" Stoops changing positions with Al (the sportsman) for second place honors.

The remainder of the "experts" are in much the same position that they held last week.

Name	Pts against	W	L	T
Harlan Tingler	911	34	9	3
Wayne Stoops	1181	31	12	3
Al (the Sportsman)	1235	28	15	3
Harry Hale	1328	29	14	3
Sax Elliot	1340	28	15	3
Liz McLaughlin	1341	29	14	3
Marty Halperin	1360	29	14	3
Jim Hanley	1397	27	16	3
Art Hoffman	1431	26	17	3
Bill Walsh	1490	26	17	3

(Lack of space prevents publishing prognostications this week. Records will be kept and results given in next week's issue.)
