'Huckster's Ball'-- Costumes and all!

Members and pledges in Phi Delta and their guests in costumes will gather in the Lido Room of the Hollywood Knickerbocker tomorrow evening for the Hucksters Costume Ball.

Costumes to be worn by the future admen will depict advertised products or trademarks. A prize will be given for the most ingenious and original costume and judging by pre-dance talk, selection of the best will be no easy task.

Two accomplished entertainers, Bill Barty in the comedy routines and Ted Kovachs on the piano will headline the floor show. These two will be ably assisted by the other five pledges who will participate in the skits.

Carrying out the advertising theme, the Lido Room will take on the appearance of an advertiser's dream (or nightmare). With local agencies cooperating, Ivan Harlan, Ed Abramson, Jack Brightman, and Harry Hale are collecting material for these decorations.

A professional group furnished by the McConkey Music Agency will provide dance music and novelty tunes for the crowd.

Refreshments are being provided by Bert Hall. Lew Kennedy and Harley Lyon arranged for the band. Lew also selected the location, along with Clyde Roden. Harley Lyon, as social chairman is in charge of the program.

CSTA groups plan activities

In an effort to provide advance information about particular school districts, the CSTA library group is preparing a questionnaire to be sent out with a request for salary schedules. By answering, each district will give a picture of the district, its policies, and practices.

Another committee is working on a dance in the near future. Present plans include State's Dance Band, talks by graduates now teaching, and free food and refreshment.

Chief concern of the membership committee is the compilation of information to be mimeographed and distributed in a September membership drive.

Constitutional revision to provide for the election of officers at the end of the semester is being considered by the constitution committee.

Juvenile authority discusses problems

Mr. Patrick Palace, Chief of the Juvenile Division, Los Angeles County Probation Department, recently addressed the class on Social Problems (Sociology 102). Mr. Palace is a former director of the Los Angeles Juvenile Hall and has spent 24 years in the field of delinquency control and youth guidance.

He stressed the need of utilizing the total resources of the community in meeting the needs of its young people. As enlightened citizenry is needed to provide more adequate facilities for delinquent, defective, and deserted children, job opportunities are always good in this field, Palace said.

The course is taught by Dr. James B. Wilson, Associate Professor of social science.

ATTENTION VETERANS

All veterans now attending Los Angeles State College using the benefits of Public Law 16, 346 or the California State Bill and are planning to attend the 1949 Summer Session of the Los Angeles State College or Los Angeles City College, using the benefits of one of these bills, should call at the Veterans Affairs Office, B-4, on or before May 6, 1949. If this is done, there should be no interruption in receipt of subsistence checks during the Summer Session.

....All veterans now using the benefits of Public Law 346, who will NOT attend the Summer Session on this campus but will use their letter of eligibility at another institution in the Fall, should call at the Veterans Affairs Office, B-4, just prior to the close of this semester and make application for a supplemental letter.

ICC reminds clubs to turn in data

Today ICC officers will meet with the Constitution Committee to draw up the Code of Operations. The council will meet every other week in AD 225 at 12 on Thursdays.

The charters for clubs are being printed and will be presented by Dr. Peterson later in the semester.

A reminder for all club presidents to hand in the blanks that were handed out.

A new organization submitted their constitution, Rho Delta Chi. Lloyd Hutton is president and Dick Roth, ICC representative. Their purpose is to stimulate school spirit and they are taking for their first project the printing of State College decals.

Valuable awards for public speaking

A public speaking contest will be held for all Speech 100 students with five students from each of the three sections participating.

Prizes to be awarded include: a large loving cup donated by the Southern California Trophy Co., a Ronson lighter presented by the Wm. E. Phillips Co., a compact or distinguished tie pin from the Richard's jeweler store and a large volume of Webster's Collegiate dictionary from the Campus Book Store, and other awards will be given to the winners of this contest.

Judging the contest will be speech instructors from several other colleges and speech context will follow some line of reform.

Sigma Alpha Gamma requests art material

All students are invited to turn in art work to enter the exhibit to be held from May 23 - June 3 in the State College Library. The material must be turned in May 8 through 13 in Bungalow 5, Mr. Olsen's office. Additional information may be obtained on the bulletin board in Bungalow 8.

Coeds visit Seeley

In order to form the nucleus of the YWCA group on campus, a visit was made to Camp Seeley last week-end. While there, the campus representatives attended meetings pointed toward a world-wide Christian movement for international brotherhood. Addressing the 175 YMCA and YWCA members was Dr. T. Z. Koo, Secretary of the World Student Christian Association.

Agreement pending on interpretations

by Larry Bordan

State college in the Los Angeles area is finally a reality. With Governor Warren's signature put on A. B. 111 Monday night the bill became law.

If you're in a dilemma as to the exact interpretation of the bill and just what is going to happen don't feel too badly because everybody seems to be confused. So long as the school fulfills the dominant needs of the students then our mission is accomplished.

Call for bowling teams Intra-murals begin

First state college intramural activity a bowling tournament will be held soon, announced Wayne Hanks Mens Rep. All clubs interested in entering a team in this proposed activity should turn in a list of their bowlers and club name to Ray Garcia, ICC commissioner or Hanks.

The amount of support given to this tourney will help determine the extent which intramural sports will be carried. Individual medals plan to be awarded for members of the winning and runner up teams. Teams should consist of five members and if a club has a sufficient number of bowlers they may enter more than one team. The tournament will be held on a scratch or non-handicap basis.

Let's hope that the politicians keep the students in mind.

In past issues of the College Times we've not attempted to insert our own interpretations into any politics that have come about. We have only presented the facts as they have appeared.

There are certain issues on which we can stand pat regardless of propaganda that may reach you via uninformed parties: (1) We are now officially a State College supported by the state and entitled to all State College benefits. (2) The final authority as relates to teacher qualifications, student requirements and other related specificities lies in the State Educational Code. (3) The Los Angeles City College is still a junior college run by the city Board of Education. (4) There are still two schools on this campus regardless of any joint administrative set-up. (5) At some later date, if deemed necessary, one of the schools will be moved.

It is a shame that something supposedly as clean as education has become the political football which it has in the case of this institution. Let's hope that this type of action is done, and that details of operation from here on out will develop along smooth lines.

Again for the benefit of you State students who think you have lost something, you've not. We've gained ourselves a four year State College. This none can deny.

Engagement

An event of the Easter holidays was the engagement announcement of Ruth Jean Gardner, senior at UCLA and Dee Van Nest, recreation major and president of the local CAHPER. Both are residents of Glendale, where 150 guests were greeted at an announcement party on April 10. Ruth Jean is an education major and president of Hilgard Club at UCLA.

Bob Miner

Within a few weeks student body members will be called upon to vote for or against the first proposed constitutional amendment. The purpose of this addition is to provide a term of office for the elected officers.

As approved by the executive council the proposal calls for a one year term for the president, vice-president, representative-at-large, men's rep. and women's rep., and semesterly terms for class officers.

A good deal of controversy has already arisen over this problem. Both sides have many legitimate arguments. Those in opposition say that a year is too long; not enough people are given an opportunity to participate; etc.

Because I am for the bill, I will attempt in the next few weeks to put across my viewpoint.

Activity programs must of necessity be set up on a yearly basis if any type of efficiency is to be maintained. This year has been a good example of the loss of time caused by semesterly changes of officers. It took two months to set up and approve a budget for the second semester. During the intervening period only a minimum of activities could be provided. If more of the council members had been experienced in this kind of operation there would have been a great saving of time (and probably effort).

Business firms have been reluctant to do business with colleges because of the frequent change of officers. By providing a core of yearly office holders we are making ourselves more attractive to outside business.

Some appointed officers must hold their positions for a year. For instance, the editor of Pitchfork must be on an annual basis. If the elected representatives are not on such a basis, many appointments may be forced on them.

Because of the validity of the argument that more people should be given opportunities to hold office, the proposal provides that half of the officers will be on a yearly basis and half will hold office for a semester. Thus continuity is given to the body while more people are allowed to participate.

Erwin Flacks

There will be put to the students in the very near future, a proposed amendment to the constitution. That amendment if passed by the student body, will, in effect, give one year's tenure to all members of the executive council except class officers.

On the surface, this may appear to expedite student activities. To some extent that may be true, however, it does not allow for certain emergency contingencies. There is a recall clause in the constitution, but it is practically impossible to impose it. You see, it would take a two-thirds vote of the student body to recall a member, but if you can manage to get two-thirds of the students to ever get close to a ballot box, let alone voting to recall, you're doing something that's not short of a miracle. So if a poor councilman were elected for a year (and that may happen) you are stuck!

If you remember that a student body officer may run for reelection, there may be no need for an officer to have a year's tenure.

Arguments in favor of this amendment declare that it takes time for the council to draw up a good substantial budget. However, there will have to be a new budget each and every semester since students purchase their student body membership at that time.

You cannot with any accuracy determine at the beginning of one semester what money will come into coffers for the following term. Therefore a year in office will not help one whit towards this end.

Another argument states that after one semester a councilman will be better qualified and experienced to carry on his executive duties. But there is also the contention that if you're lousy one semester, you can be lousy, and perhaps more so, the next time out.

One other contention. This reporter believes more alternatives should have been allowed the students. If they were to vote in the negative, LASC officers may remain in office indefinitely since no provision was made for tenure in the constitution. The executive council may then pass a by-law to the constitution stating tenure of office. However, there is no check on the executive council. They may put into the by-laws exactly what was in the amendment even if the majority of students voted in the negative on the proposal. Why couldn't more alternatives be allowed? Perhaps students want all their officers to hold tenure for only one semester, or perhaps, the president have one year in office while other members one semester. You figure it out!

The College Times will not, as has been rumored, change its name to "that other publication on campus," nor for that matter to "the College Crimes."

The staff of this student publication have been quite highly commended for their unerring accuracy in reporting the controversial twists of Assembly Bill III. We'd like to take this opportunity to humbly thank those responsible for their commendation.

Summer in Europe Awaits Diablos with That Midas touch

Been humming "Far Away Places" and want to do something about it? Then here's your chance! A full two months summer tour of Europe awaits you with all the major points of contemporary and historic interest visited! And—all the details that usually cause annoyance on a world's tour taken care of in advance!

Chosen to go in the capacity of counselor and guide, Miss Ann Greer, Professor of English at the University of Southern California and newest addition to our own State faculty, announced the trip this week and said although the group would be limited to 30, a number of reservations are still available to interested students, faculty and the public.

Organized under the direction of Dr. Mary Sinclair Crawford, professor of French and former Dean of Women at USC and Professor Leon J. Camrose of the USC French department will assist on the entire tour. The cultural - including the social, literary and artistic aspects of the countries visited will be stressed.

Cost of the trip is $2,225 and for those who know current travel costs, particularly with all meals of the finest, and fares in the first class rating, this is considered very reasonable. And just for added romantic measure, one of Hollywood's film personalities has signed up for the entire tour. Consider yourself drifting along a moonlit Venice canal or on a slow boat to Corsica with . . . Oh oh! It's a secret, and just one more of the endless surprise thrills in store when you start on the grandest two months you've ever known! Miss Greer will sign you up and give all the travel details needed. Step right up! Ticket window—bungalow 5!

Varieties 'tops' again at Compton

The L.A. State College Varieties, produced and directed by Danny Desmond, pulled all corks plugging laugheritis before a twice packed Compton College auditorium last Friday. Two shows, one for the junior college and the other for the high school element, continually kept their standing-room-only audiences laughing hysterically throughout.

Arthur Duncan brilliantly sang and danced the show to its rousing finale. Duncan left the crowd at the final curtain literally crying for more.

Danny Desmond kept the show at a terrific pace with his laugh-a-minute routines.

Joy Healy opened the show with a bang in her fine tap dance manner. Nyda Neutzman kept the audience from catching its breath by swinging them from gasping hilarity to way down deep sighs with her rendition of Smoke Gets In Your Eyes. Jim Goddard and Sam Seby brought them back again with a hilarious satire on "so you want to be a teacher."

Ross Burdick

Words About Music: Les Brown and his band of renown, opened at the Palladium last Tuesday. Don't miss the band that made "I've Got My Love To Keep Me Warm" such a hit . . . The big "Just Jazz" concert, featuring Charlie Ventura and his All-Stars, will be this coming Monday night, May 9, at the Pasadena Civic. Ventura features Jackie Cain and Roy Kral on bop vocals plus a group of well known musicians. As an added attraction, several "Name" vocalists will be featured, including Jimmy Witherspoon. . . .

Sarah Vaughn is holding forth at Ciro's. If you have a few extra bucks on hand, it's well worth it to hear this terrific vocalist.

Musical Notes: With bongoist Jack Costanzo now a permanent member of the group, the King Cole Trio has been officially renamed NAT "KING" COLE AND THE TRIO. Costanzo was featured for two years with the old Stan Kenton band before joining "King" Cole.

Rho Delta Chi new men's organization

Invitations are open this week for pledges in State's newest social-service fraternity, Rho Delta Chi, Frank Weingartner, historian-publicity officer, announced last Monday. The acceptance of interspersed campus males will culminate in a social next Sunday at 7:00 p.m. at the home of Rod McLendon, 554 Cahuenga.

Meetings up to date have seen the acceptance of a constitution, election of officers, formation of pin and decal committees, and many suggestions for future activities and service. In a meeting of last week's Inter-club council, Rho Delta Chi was given a vote of confidence to carry on with their project of procuring and distributing State College decals. Frank Weingartner heads the committee in charge of investigating the procedure.

Officers elected to serve until September are: president, Lloyd Hutton; vice-president, Stan Hansen; secretary, Rod McLendon; treasurer, Dick Peterson; historian, Frank Weingartner; sgt. at arms, John MacDonald; and ICC representative, Dick Roth. Faculty sponsor is Dr. Raymond Rydell.

AWS plans new event

Plans were formed at last week's AWS meeting for a late afternoon "State Swim" to be held from 4-6 p.m. May 13. The activity is open to all State coeds, and will include use of the pool, volleyball courts, and the Shakespearean Garden for those who bring their dinner.

Sam Sebby and Jim Goddard, College Times, drama editors, amuse Compton College students at a show presented at that campus recently by State showmen. (See pg. 2 for story)

SAM presents 'Tobacco Land'

SAM will present an informative picture entitled "Tobacco Land" is SLH 201, April 29 at 12 noon. This motion picture shows the manufacture of tobacco in a thirty minute trip through the manufacturing process. From the beginning stage of taking the tobacco into the plant, the grading it receives, and finally to the manufactured forms that are seen today.

Collegians parade fresh Spring styles

Associated Women Students presented a showing of Bullock's current spring styles for college men and women last Thursday in the Student Union. Working in close cooperation were Miriam Andrews, AWS president and Bullock's Downtown representative, Leslie Holmes. Student models, chosen prior to the showing by Extracurricular class 101, were Daphne Pollock, Larry Bordan, June Phillips, Karl Gunn, Ruth Pura, Johanna Taafe, Burt Morton, and Ruth Pearce.

"We wish to show the appropriate apparel for taking the college student through the day," said Miss Holmes, who described each complete costume. It was to this theme that morning, school, street and evening wear was displayed while Marian Crowell played the background piano music.

The sun is beaming over the campus these days, distracting us from our books and turning our thoughts to the beach. So if you can tear away for a bask in the sun, you'll find many alluring fashions designed to help you get that glorious tan. Swim suits are very abbreviated, with the strapless suit showing the greatest toll of popularity. Reflecting the old-fashioned influences, we see many ruffled cotton suits and bloomer shorts. Swim suits with matching skirts and blouses for shore wear are much in the spotlight.

Denim retains its usual popularity in shorts and play clothes but has taken on new iridescent overtones of topaz, red and green.

So grab your "hobo bag," don a nifty outfit of terry cloth shorts and pull-over middy, or that new strapless swim suit if you want to ride the waves, and we're off for a day of fun in the sun.

Well here it is 4B weather again (beach, blonde, beer and blanket) and I've gotta stick around and fill up these few inches.

Harry Campbell deserves a tip of the hat for the way the 440 and 880 relay teams ran at Santa Barbara last Saturday. The team has made tremendous strides since it began last March and don't be surprised if they should take a few places in the Fresno relays next month.

Another thanks—to the Letterman's club and Sigma Chi

Alpha for officiating at the Cal Tech, Loyola, State track meet a few weeks back.

Just a few notes on the San Francisco convention of CAHPER. Everyone attending had nothing but praise for the meetings. State's representatives included Dee Van Nest, Dot Tasker, Marie Rosenblatt, Bob Dittmar and Wayne Scott.

Highlight of the weekend was either Governor Earl Warren's talk to the group or Rattle de Bang's victory in the 8th race at Golden Gate.

CAHPER's last meeting featured Miss Kelly, a representative from the County Recreation Department.

Bowling seems to be getting stronger and stronger. Along with the weekly Thursday night which incidentally has switched locations from Sunset Blvd. to Hollywood and Van Ness, a tournament is about to begin. Info can be obtained from Wayne Hanks or Ray Garcia.

Hear that the basketball team is still (late) in handing in equipment. Just a suggestion to anyone who is interested in seeing the entire squad together. You'll find them in the right field bleachers any time Hollywood plays at home.

Finish at S.B. relays in question; Team journeys to Fresno in May

Coach Harry Campbell's black and gold relay teams, composed of Chase Edmunds, Duff Means, Ed Sparrow and Burt Morton, competed in last week's Santa Barbara relays but the results of the 880 still seem to be in question.

According to some authorities the Diablos took a third when City College was disqualified; however medals were not presented to the boys. The final outcome will depend on the rulings of the Santa Barbara committee. Another relay team, the 440, ran last behind the likes of UCLA, Pepperdine, LAAC and other teams of this caliber. UCLA set a new record for the Santa Barbara relays in this event.

Harry Campbell hopes to hold another meet here against either Cal Poly or La Verne or both within the next few weeks. He also plans on taking his thinclads to the Fresno relays in the latter part of May.
