Mr. Glenard Lipscomb

Lipscomb outlines program to faculty

"A multi-storied building program, designed to enlarge the physical capacity of Los Angeles State College, is at present under consideration," declared state assemblyman Glenard Lipscomb Thursday, Oct. 9, at a meeting of the faculty association.

Speaking before a capacity audience, Mr. Lipscomb maintained "there are no plans contemplated to change the present dual set-up into a 4 year state college." He further explained that state auditors are currently comparing the curriculum of the two schools and considering the possibility of duplication of equipment by the two colleges. A complete report will be made available when this study is completed.

Mr. Lipscomb, assemblyman from the 56th district and direct representative of both State and City Colleges in the legislature, has the distinction of being a member of the Legislative Ways and Means Committee and the Joint Legislative Budget Committee, both very important to the future of State College.

In referring to the problem of adequate housing for State College, Mr. Lipscomb explored the possibility of excessive rental charges for City College property, and said, "The possibility of using state funds to purchase additional land should not be precluded."

Dr. Donald Mortensen, president of the LASC faculty association, expressed the pleased reaction of the assembled educators when he stated that the State College faculty association hoped to have further opportunity to work together with Mr. Lipscomb.

"I appreciate being invited to speak to the State College faculty and look forward to returning," said Mr. Lipscomb.

Auditions start for TV show

Approved this week by Dr. Howard S. McDonald, the plans for a weekly TV program proposed by the Language Arts Division will begin auditioning interested students on Tuesday, Nov. 21, at 4 pm, in SA 101.

Ultimately intended as a public service, this experimental program is designed to present, in attractive format, educational resources available for successful "human engineering."

An attempt will be made to avoid set lectures, panels, and classroom situations in the preparation of original scripts.

Maximum opportunities to participate throughout the program will be given students. Professional standards are expected to prevail. Instructors experienced in TV writing and production will be in charge of the program.

A survey of the TV industry currently is under way in order to allow participating students to coordinate their school work with actual experience under the auspices of the Alternate Work-Study Program.

Singers, dancers, on Chest rally

The State College Community Chest Drive went into high gear with a huge rally in the Auditorium at noon Wednesday.

The State College Pep Band under the direction of Mr. Vernon Leidig opened the show. Tommy Bond introduced Joyce Younger, Pasadena sports-caster, who acted as master of ceremonies.

First number on the program was a soft-shoe dance by Gene Collins and Collete Cole. Pat Wheeler sang "Blue Moon" and "I Can't Give You Anything But Love". Paul Herzberg accompanied Miss Wheeler.

Kay Skahill, committee chairman, asked the full cooperation of all students in order that the goal of $500.00 might be reached. She reported that less than half the amount had been collected as of Wednesday.

Bob Feldman played two piano solos, "East of the Sun" and "Out of Nowhere". Tom Green, Community Chest publicity head, entertained with imitations and sleight-of-hand.

Three Phi Delta members expound on the evils of women to win the award for the best day's activity during Men's Week last year.

Ferrer speaks about 'Cyrano'

Sponsored by the Modern Drama Class, Jose Ferrer, film and theatre star, will speak Monday, Nov. 20, at 12, in the Auditorium.

Mr. Ferrer's subject will be "Cyrano de Bergerac", the film in which he plays the title role, currently being shown in Hollywood.

All interested students and faculty members are cordially invited to attend.

Applications, pics, due for Homecoming Queen

Attention! All members of the ICC, IFC and Panhellenic. Now is the time for you to be considering whom you want to sponsor for the Homecoming Queen. Applications must be in by Dec. 8, 1950 in order that the Honorable lady may be chosen by the student body at large before Jan. 13, 1951.

Each application must be accompanied by an 8 x 5 inch picture. Please turn the nominations into Bungalow G.

Diablos play neighbors in first weekend game

Tomorrow night at 8 p.m. Coach Sax Elliot's Diablo quintet will host Don Perkin's Panthers of Chapman College.

This tiff will provide the locals with the second game of the season having already defeated the El Toro Marines in the first encounter.

Chapman College a new member of the Southern California Intercollegiate Conference this year promises to furnish the locals with a game marked with neighborly rivalry.

The Panthers have not engaged in direct competition as yet, but have defeated an alumni team in a practice clash, 64-34. The Diablos, with one game under their belt, promise to field a team experienced in both defensive and offensive tactics.

This year will mark the third season of play between the two colleges.

The starting lineup of the Panthers will probably include three returning lettermen from last year's squad, while the Diablos starting lineup will boast a full team of five lettermen alternating with the remainder of the roster.

Prominent during the game and half time periods will be the reorganized pep and rooting activities planned by the Rally Commissioner. These activities should prove interesting to all in attendance as a full crew of song and yell leaders will be supported by a pep band.

Variety show rehearsals start

There's been music in the air, and dancing on the clouds since the first LASC Musical Show has been in rehearsal.

The show comes under one of the many branches of public relations, with Wayne Stoops, commissioner of public relations, as coordinator. The cast and acts have been chosen, and now it is up to Tommy Bond, director, to put the show together.

It is a campus wide event, combining the State College drama department and general student body, with an original script by Mark Rodgers, costumes by Nettie Paisin, technical advisors Donald Stone and William Cockran, and generally supervised by Dr. Esther Pencheff.

Watch for announcement of the opening date.

Game rally set for Wednesday

A State College student rally will be held in the auditorium on Nov. 22, to prepare a strong rooting section for the game with Occidental College the following Thursday night. This announcement was made and details were arranged by the commissioners of activities in their last meeting.

In order to acquaint the students attending both the rally and the coming games with the college songs and yells, the commissioners have prepared mimeographed sheets of same, which will be distributed among those present.

The commissioners feel that student cooperation in the coming rallies is important for building a strong school spirit needed so badly by such a young, but eager school.

Salary for Art Hoffman as Publicity Director

In a recent meeting, the executive council approved the report of the finance committee, as read by Byron Travis, AS treasurer, recommending that Art Hoffman, publicity director, be paid a salary of $30 a month as of Oct. 10.

Twenty dollars a month was allocated to the College Times to offset the service of mailing the paper to the students called into active service with the armed forces.

Today is the last day to contribute to the State College Community Chest drive. As of last Wednesday, State was lagging behind in its attempt to reach the $500 goal. To miss our goal again would place State behind the other Los Angeles colleges in contributions. These other colleges, USC, UCLA, Occidental, and Pepperdine consistently make their quotas.

We have entertainers and speakers visit our campus and donate their time and talent to the Community Chest cause. Let's not let them down. To do so would place this college in a bad light when we again request their help.

The Red Feather agencies help many of the children that some of you at State will later be called on to teach. Since your future will be largely involved in helping and guiding children you should do what you can now in assisting the organizations that help in guiding these children toward a better life.

Try to give a dollar if you can, but if not give what you are able. That picture of George Washington on the dollar bill means something. He gave, not only of his time and fortune, but risked his life for this country and you. Do what you can to further his cause by helping others.

The fact that the State College Associated Students has money is well known. What is not so well known is what that money goes for and why there is so little of it available for people who need it badly.

Saturday night's game with Chapman marks the beginning of the season for the Diablos. Our team this year will prove to be one that we can point to with pride and follow with loyalty. These players receive nothing from our school, student body or alumni except the encouragement shown by our attendance. Their spirit is all important and it is left up to us, as students, to show our team we are behind them one hundred percent.

One of the most interesting events of the year, the Hermit's Holiday Dance, will take place on Dec. 1. The dance will again be sponsored by the Order of Satan, culminating Men's Week. This year more is at stake than there has been in the past. The money realized, over the expected fifty dollars, will be applied toward the purchase of letterman jackets. This money will be administered by a committee composed of the Executive Council and the Letterman's Society. If the money raised is not enough, the letterman will contribute the difference. It is the desire of all the students of State that our athletes be given an adequate reward for their services, and if they work for this themselves, they should certainly be encouraged.

I would like to thank the people who have worked so hard this week on the Community Chest. The reaction was wonderful and you, as members of this association, may be proud of the efforts of State College for this worthy cause.

State-City Orchestra

Combined State-City College Orchestra is in rehearsal for concerts to be given early in December. The main selection will be Schumann's Fourth Symphony. Orchestra director Lauris Jones stated, "Student co-operation and enthusiasm has been very good this semester."

Auditions for vocal and instrumental soloists will be held in the near future. Announcement of times and places will be made at a later date.

Injustice theme of French film

Tonight there will be a showing of "The Courier of Lyons", a French film dealing with injustice in 18th century France. The picture relates the story of an innocent man convicted of a crime through circumstantial evidence.

The French movie will be accompanied by a short titled "Who's Boss?", a film on marriage relationships in our present day society.

Mr. Waldo Salt, whose film credits include "Rachael and the Stranger" and "The Flame and the Arrow", will speak briefly on the two pictures and the appreciation of good movie making.

The movies will be shown at 8 pm at the First Unitarian Church, 2936 West 8th Street. They will be preceded by a turkey dinner served from 4:30 to 8 pm in connection with a Church Bazaar. Price of the dinner is $1.25. Admission to the movie is 55 cents.

Dr. Rodee lectures on Foreign Policy

Dr. Carlton C. Rodee, professor of political science at USC, in his lecture on "The Nature of Foreign Policy", stressed factors and forces which in the long run affect foreign policy.

Among the items stressed by Dr. Rodee which affect foreign policy were geographical location, natural resources, population policies, and ideology. He further expressed the belief that the power of a nation must be balanced with its commitments and that domestic and foreign policy are inseparable.

Dr. Rodee defined foreign policy as overall economic, political, military, and ideological strategy which has as its object national unity.

Moderated by Dr. Ake Sandler, the lecture, second in a series on foreign policy, jointly sponsored by the Division of Social Science and Pi Gamma, Social Science honorary fraternity, was well attended by students and faculty.

The luncheon served in the Student Union immediately following the lecture permitted students and faculty to meet and talk informally with Dr. Rodee.

Student negligence causes book loss

Dean Morton J. Renshaw has requested that students be reminded to cooperate with the administration by not leaving purses, books, etc., lying around.

"The problems connected with loss of property could be greatly alleviated if students would be careful to keep their property with them," stated Dr. Renshaw.

Melrose Theater shows Shakespearean drama

Shakespeare's "Midsummer Nights Dream" a Warner Bros. picture produced by Max Rinehart, will be shown today, Friday Nov. 17, at 2:30 pm at the Melrose Theatre, 4315 Melrose Avenue.

Letters to editor

DEAR EDITOR:

In the Nov. 2 College Times, Bill Walsh says, "In the past these athletes who have participated on various teams have not been shown the proper consideration that is actually due them. By this I mean the faculty as well as the students have not been behind them. Any athlete who travels with a team is bound to miss a few classes as well as an exam now and then." The existence of such blackguards prove the necessity of the loyalty oath and the fingerprinting of the faculty that has been going on the last few weeks.

And besides, how can we ever hope to have a football team if the word gets around that we expect players to meet stinking scholastic standards like people have to do. This brings up something else that has been bothering me. I have been feeling as conspicuous as hell because this campus has not been football-mad like most other campuses. I suggest that we cut out the Language Arts Department and spend the money on football teams like those kids on other campuses have.

May I comment on the ideal situation in playlet form? This is an imaginary interview between me and a mythical LASC AAS professor (Dr. Sterlon) about his equally mythical class (Where Would Shakespeare Be Without Dianetics?)

Me: I say, Sterlie, you know I'm on the Diablos hopscotch. . .

Dr. S.: Rah! Rah!
Me: . . . team and expect to be out on a road trip the next couple weeks.

Dr. S.: Wonderful, wonderful. Made the team, huh? I knew you could do it.

Me: Uh, about assignments. . .
Dr. S.: Don't, don't even mention them. After all we will cover only As You Like It, Midsummer Night's Dream, Julius Caesar, Antony and Cleopatra, and Romeo and Juliet while you're gone.

Me: Those last two stories sound pretty interesting—the one about Romeo and the one about Julie Ann.

Dr. S.: Not really very interesting. Just another triangle with in-law trouble thrown in to bolster a weak plot. Hollywood has done it dozens of times. Since I'm not going to be busy, I can write you a special examination, or you can get the one I'll give to the unfortunate weaklings that stay behind from one of your pals.

Me: Well, gee, thanks.
Dr. S.: If you'll pardon me mentioning the word in your athletic presence, think nothing of it. Just get out there and fight for dear ol' Los Angeles State College of Applied Arts and Sciences, you—heh, heh—you Devil, you.

The two characters stand a few minutes with arms entwined while several strolling hautboy players swing into the Diablos fight song.

The Panther team ably coached by Don Perkins has engaged in friendly cross-street rivalry with the locals for the past three seasons, this encounter should provide plenty of action as both teams have entered conference competition for the first time this year.

Tanksters drown Cal Poly 12-2

Diablo water poloists wind up their season today at 4 pm when they invade the Huntington Park High School pool for a league tilt with the East Los Angeles Junior College Huskies. The Staters will be trying to establish clear title to third place in loop standings.

Occidental and Cal Tech are fighting for first and second place. The local mermen have two wins and two losses to date and are tied for third with the Huskie squad.

The Devils again turned back Cal Poly San Dimas by thumping the Broncos 12-2 in the State pool, Tuesday. They previously rang up an 11-1 victory over Cal Poly.

Highlight of the contest came at the close of game when Harold Venger hit the net for the only goal he has scored in his entire collegiate career. Coach Bud Wise switched Venger from his goal guarding position to a forward spot at the beginning of the fourth quarter when the locals led 10-0. He received a pass and tallied just as the gun sounded.

The switch did cost the Diablos though. While Venger was adding one counter the Broncos fired their two lone tallies by Louis Jones, forward, who had made the position switch with Venger. Venger charges the loss of a shutout to Jones.

Bill Ramsey and Jones shared scoring honors by tallying four goals apiece. Ramsey scored three in the first period and added another in the third. Dick Fletcher, John Jones and Sheldon Munach added one apiece.

Harriers enter championship

Coach Harry W. Campbell's distancemen again face competition when they enter the SPAAU cross country 5000 meter championship run tomorrow.

The 5000 meter (3 miles, 188 yds.) run is sponsored by the Golden Gate Champions and takes place on the UCLA course. Starting time will be 11 am.

Medals will be given to the individual first three place winners as well as to the winning teams.

L.A. State College men who will enter are: Jim Strigle, Tex Averitt, Norm Gauthier, Angelo Teresa, Jack Swinburn, Tom Baer, Nick Raino, James Bell and Al Reiff.

The L. A. State College - Pomona College basketball game originally scheduled to be played at Pomona has been cancelled. This game will be played at Los Angeles State College, Monday, Nov. 27 at 8 p.m. This change will give L. A. State an added game on the home schedule.

Wife tickets for games readied

"Student card holders are urged to take advantage of the season ticket books available to dependents of students", said Warren Reeves, business manager of the athletic department.

This book offers admission to home basketball games at the reduced price of $5.00, including tax.

These season ticket books entitle admission to a total of 12 games, starting with the Chapman College-L. A. State game on Nov. 18. Books are on sale now and may be purchased in the Graduate Manager's office, Administration 107, any day between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Prediction results

Again the prediction column undergoes a series of individual place standing changes. Low score of the week went to Al "the sportsman" with 138 points against, him. Following closely was Art Hoffman who dropped out of the "anchor position", a spot he has retained all year.

All of the experts missed the SMU-Texas A&M game. Bill Walsh dropped into last position with 364 points against him when his "goodies" of New Mexico over Army and Minnesota over mighty Michigan State failed to materialize. Hoffman called the Texas-Baylor and Michigan State-Minnesota game on the nose.

Up to date standings:

Harlan Tingler	738	26	8	2

Elliot addresses press group

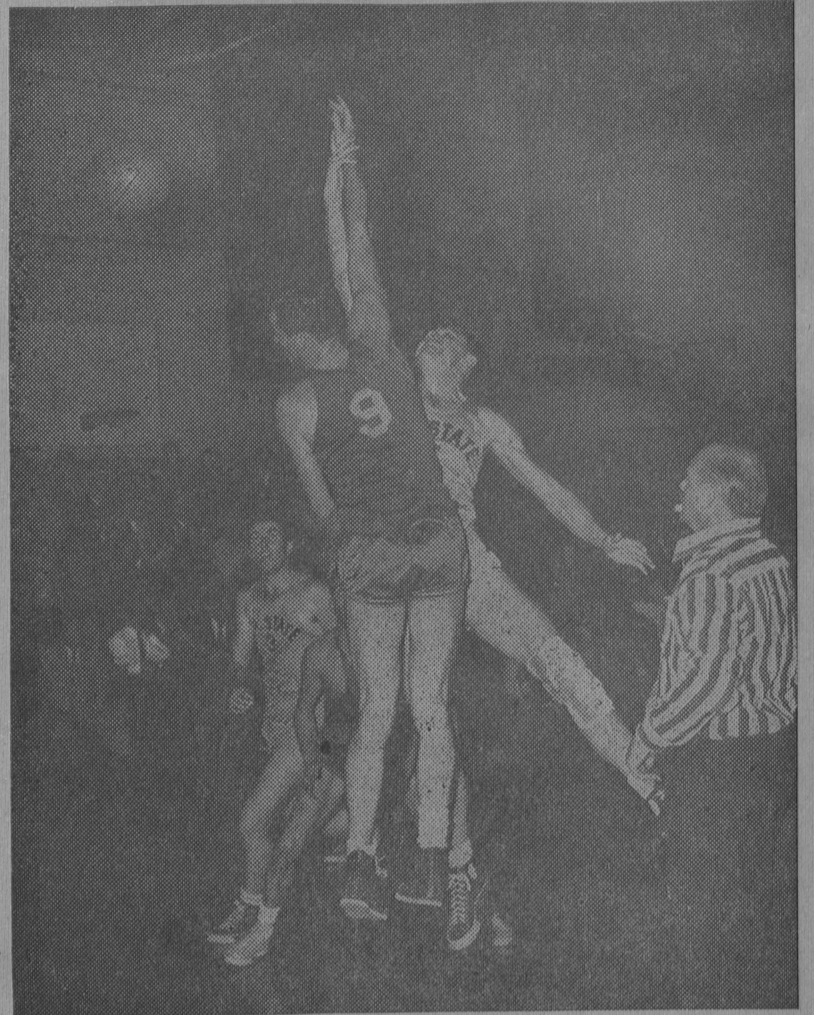

Sax Elliot, State College basketball coach, addressed the members of the Greater Los Angeles Press Club last Monday. Subject of his talk was the forthcoming L.A. State College basketball tournament scheduled for Dec. 19, 20 and 21.

Mr. Elliot explained the complete tournament set-up, including scheduling of games, teams participating and tournament rules. The games will be played on all three days with tip off time scheduled for 2:15 and 7:15.

Mr. Elliot added that this is the first season that State has engaged in direct conference competition and in keeping with the expanding athletic program that is contemplated this tournament should furnish a means of creating student and community interest in L. A. State College athletic events.
