Dance builds scholarships

I.C.C. acts to build grid fund

Delegates from the various campus clubs voiced their choice comments and suggestions in B 115 last Tuesday in the first meeting of the Inter-Club Council.

Discussion was wide-spread and suggestive of the policy that ICC will adhere to while acting as chief coordinator of club activities on campus. It is also their job to promote fellowship among all students as well as to encourage school spirit.

Ralph Stevens, newly appointed commissioner of the Inter-Club Council, selected Ray Smith of Sigma Chi Alpha, to head the carnival committee. Ideas were offered concerning State's annual carnival.

This is the project consisting of campus clubs that will construct concession booths, side-shows, games, and all that goes for making fun carnival style.

Mention was made of the Blue Key Dance for the Scholarship Society slated for next Saturday, April 7, at the Dance Studios near Beverly and Fairfax.

With much unfinished business remaining, Ralph will call club representatives to order today in B-115 at 12 m.

Award prizes, profits to fund

A donation dance you say? "Yes it's a donation dance," said Frank Seltzer, president of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity. The $1.50 charge per bid to the dance hits a new low in bid prices for college dances.

"The dance is for a worthy cause too. All profits go into the Scholarship Fund in order to help needy and worthy students meet their financial requirements and therefore spend less time working so that they may study," he stated.

The dance "Blue Key Notes to Knowledge," is the first semiannual dance sponsored by Blue Key.

Norma Gould Studios near Beverly and Fairfax is the scene of the dance to be held Saturday, April 7th at 8 p.m. Sport dress is the rule.

Music will be provided by the Combo of Tommy Bond, Ray Newman and Nate Capolbo. Outside entertainment is also planned. Canned refreshments are also on the agenda.

Door prizes, one for a girl and one for a boy, will be awarded. "Drop the business side of college life," said Mike Polito, "and make new friends at this worthy dance."

Awards offered in public affairs study

The Coro Foundation of San Francisco is offering twelve scholarships of $1000 apiece to students who can qualify for its 6th Internship in Public Affairs. The scholarships are for those interested in government and public affairs.

There will be a meeting of prospective players on April 4, at 12:15 in the lecture room over the gym. Equipment will be issued from the north end of the bleachers from 10-12 m. and 2-4 p.m.

"We will need support from the entire student body as well as full cooperation from the players", stated Warren Reeves, assistant coach. He will handle the line chores.

State's "brand new" team will have such stellar performers as Jim Duran, who shared pigskin honors with City College's top-notch backs; Paul Thomas, outstanding back from El Camino; and Henry Wilkinson, promising lineman.

There are a host of unproven aspirants, including sprinters Tom Williams and Fred Sims, and linemen Cliff Davis & "Red Williams. Coach Elliot expects about twenty-five men at the first practice with an increased number for the succeeding practices.

A spring practice session from April 10 thru April 26 will serve to condition the men for early fall practice. If necessary, Elliot will lengthen the schedule to allow for extra work.

He plans to shift his men from the "T" to a single wing or box. Plays will originate inside the "T" wing. These will be supplemented with wide plays on the "T" while using the pitchout and winged "T". Passes will be tossed from both formations.

Actors rehearse television show

"That's right. Get excited about it," roared Tommy Bond, director of the forthcoming State College TV show, "Let's Go to College." Reason for the directorial outburst was a particularly animated performance by one of the show's stars, Beverly Heilig.

Co-starring with Miss Heilig are Dave Farmer, Pat Wheeler, Chuck Hargrove, Gene Collins, and an instrumental combo with Chuck Gasci, Nate Capalbo, and Ray Newman.

The script is by Mark Rodgers.

The show will be presented on Tuesday, April 10, on "Guestbook" KFI-TV between 3:30 and 4:30. Purpose of the show is to introduce the public to State College.

The possibility of a series of TV shows by State College will depend largely on the public response to the show. Postcards to be filled out by students and faculty and sent to the studio will be found in booths set up on campus on the day following the telecast.

Rally planned for baseball tilt, dual track meet

Betty Coggins, rally commissioner, announced a big rally to be held in the Snyder Field bleachers this Friday. On hand for official welcoming will be the Pepperdine baseball team which will clash with the Diablo horsehidiers that afternoon at the Griffith Park diamond. In the stands will be the San Diego track team which will meet the State men on the local oval the same day.

Rally entertainment will feature a mystery guest who has made recent appearances on television and has just completed an engagement at Larry Potter's Supper Club.

State's last rally featured Jay Johnston from Stan Kenton's band. The mystery guest this time promises to be as equally outstanding.

Also participating in the program will be the State College Pep Band, Yell Leader Marty Halperin, and Song Leaders Pat Koehm and Dot Bartholio. A new State College combo, Los Diablos, will be unveiled.

This promises to be the outstanding rally of the semester and should receive the support of the students and faculty.

Alexander Reviews

Success rang throughout the rafters of the Ivar Theatre last Friday night in the third performance of the Jean Gidaudoux play, "The Madwoman of Chaillot," which stars Aline MacMahon and over a score of others.

The comedy, with its undertones of seriousness, is concerned with the intelligent wisdom of an insane woman (if this can be?), who wishes to rid the world of the materialists and dollar idolators, which she ultimately does.

Some of the scenes were hilariously funny, not only to me but to the entire audience. This was especially true in the second act when three insane women are petting an imaginary dog which they realize isn't there.

It is difficult to say who performed the best, because each one on the stage knew of what he spoke.

To date, this is the best play and best all round production presented at the Ivar theatre.

Horsehidiers split

Danny Means slugged two home runs in the second game of a double header with the Santa Barbara Gauchos and drove in the winning run in the ninth inning of the opening tussle Saturday.

The ninth inning blow gave the Diablos a 5-4 victory on the Roosevelt Playground diamond and thereby posted a win in their first CCAA baseball game.

Despite the two homers by Means, however, the Gaucho nine won a 12-10 slugfest over Coach Bud Wise's squad.
